

I had the pleasure of coaching Abigail (Abby) Lawler the four seasons prior to her playing at Portsmouth Abbey, where she was a natural leader and displayed strong character traits on and off the ice. Abby had one of the highest hockey IQs of any player I have coached and was one of the most diverse players on the ice as well, often playing both forward and defense in a single game. That is a testament to her skills as a hockey player. Abby's leadership and skills were major contributors to our third-place finish at Nationals in 2021, the first All-Idaho girl's hockey team to medal at Nationals.

Sincerely,

Jason Haugen
